THE HISTORY OF BRAUN WATCHES

The Braun watch brand is linked with two German designers. Dieter Rams initially study architecture and interior decoration at Wiesbaden School of Art in 1947. After a year of gaining practical experience, he returned to complete his studies and graduated in 1953. He began working for Braun in 1955 and became their Chief Design Officer in 1961 until 1995. Dietrich Lubs worked as part of the design team for Rams, starting at Braun in 1962. He became deputy head of the design department in 1995 and left the company in 2001.

Together Rams and Lubs designed the DN 30s / 4808 Digital clock in 1983, the AW 10 wristwatch in 1989, and the AW 50 wristwatch in 1991 to name a few. They were responsible for many patents during their time at Braun.

The style of the Braun watches today echoes the form of these two great designers. These quality watches are timeless in their style, and their clear, clean faces allow for functionality.

The Braun Watch Repair Process

We Fix Any Watch provides straight-forward and efficient repair to make your Braun watch as good as new and as if it was like that when you first pulled it out of the shop. Here's what happens when you leave your watch with us:

Step 1: Comprehensive Inspection

We start each repair by conducting a thorough examination of your Braun watch. Our technicians check every part—movement, case, crystal, bracelet, and so on—to determine the issue and make sure nothing has been missed.

Step 2: Transparent Quotation

Once we identify the problem, we provide a clear, transparent quote for the work that is to be done. Our prices are very reasonable and transparent without any concealed charges so you know precisely what you pay before work starts.

Step 3: Expert Repairs and Restoration

Once you accept the estimate for repairs, our team will get working on the job. Whether it is a movement fix, replacement of the battery, restoration of the dial, and other services, we use only the best quality parts and professional tools to do the job right.

Step 4: Quality Control and Testing

After the repair is completed, we test it in a series of tests to ensure that your Braun watch is in proper working order. We check for accuracy in timekeeping, water resistance, and all other factors that ensure your watch is in top working condition.

Step 5: Timely Delivery

Once we are satisfied with the repair, we return your Braun watch in pristine condition. We ensure that the watch is properly packaged and delivered to you within time so that you can use your timepiece as soon as possible.
