Bremont Watch Repair Process: What to Expect

This company does the utmost to make your Bremont watch achieve the highest levels of care. See how we handle your Bremont watch repair with professionalism and a step-by-step approach:

Step 1: Rigorous Analysis

We inspect once receiving a Bremont and create a list of potential damage throughout your watch. With assistance from our technicians to dig through each area regarding problems from movement, including movement and case to bracelet, possibly leading us to fix problems right through, so we work accurately and effectively.

Step 2: Detailed Repair Estimate

When we are finished with the appraisals, we let you know what it all will take to get any repairs done, what that service is and takes to do, and then about how long all work may take. It's just our intent to make your pricing as transparent as we can so when the final decision is made, costs aren't a shock.

Step 3: Expert Repair and Restoration

Upon acceptance of the quote, work will be undertaken to pass over to you by our experienced watchmaker. No matter if you require our moving service, crystal replacement, or restoration of dials, everything is performed only with genuine Bremont parts and with the finest instruments and techniques at hand with precision and sensitivity to detail.

Step 4: Quality control and testing

As such, the watches then have to undergo a series of test runs to ensure that our Bremont watch runs efficiently. This includes testing if the timekeeping is quite accurate, water resistance checks, and ensuring that every movement is calibrated correctly and every function is right before returning your watch back to you.

Step 5: Safe delivery

Once the repair is done, and after passing through a proper quality control check, we pack up your Bremont watch with the utmost care for shipping back to you. During transport, we ensure maximum protection so that it is delivered safe in time to enjoy.
