THE HISTORY OF Dunhill WATCHES

Dunhill, a brand synonymous with luxury, was founded in 1893 by Alfred Dunhill in London. Initially known for its fine leather goods and accessories, Dunhill expanded into watchmaking in the 1920s, incorporating high-quality craftsmanship and precision. The company became renowned for creating sophisticated timepieces that complemented its stylish and affluent clientele. Today, Dunhill watches remain a symbol of elegance, blending classic design with modern innovation, and are highly sought after by collectors and watch enthusiasts.

FAQs

How do I know if my Dunhill watch needs repair?

Common signs include incorrect timekeeping, difficulty winding, a broken strap, or visible damage to the dial or crystal. If your watch isn't functioning properly, it's best to have it inspected by a professional.

How long does a Dunhill watch repair take?

The duration depends on the complexity of the repair. While minor repairs like battery replacements can be done quickly, more extensive services such as movement overhauls may take longer. We provide quick turnaround without compromising quality.

Do you use original Dunhill parts for repairs?

Yes, we use only high-quality, genuine Dunhill parts to ensure your watch's performance and value are maintained.

Can you repair vintage Dunhill watches?

Absolutely! We specialize in vintage Dunhill watch restoration, carefully preserving the craftsmanship and aesthetics of older timepieces.

How do I maintain my Dunhill watch after repair?

Regular cleaning, proper storage, and ensuring your watch is serviced periodically will help maintain its performance. We can offer maintenance tips and guide you on caring for your Dunhill timepiece.

Is water resistance testing included in your services?

Yes, we provide water resistance testing as part of our standard watch repair services, ensuring your watch remains protected from water damage.

Do I need to make an appointment for my Dunhill watch repair?

While appointments are recommended for efficient service, we also accept walk-ins. Contact us for availability or to schedule your repair.
